Costume is a refereed, scholarly journal presenting current research into historic and contemporary dress. The journal covers a broad time span and has a worldwide remit. It maintains a balance between practice and theory, concentrating on the social significance of dress. The journal includes book reviews, listings of new books, articles from other journals, and dress exhibitions. Articles are welcomed from both established researchers and those new to the field. Papers are sent out for peer review to ensure that they are of a high standard and make an original contribution to dress studies.

Areas of interest include:

- Historic and contemporary dress
- Object and archive based research
- Social significance of clothing and fashion
- Conservation and reconstruction projects

Open access publication option: Costume is a subscription journal, but is also OA-compliant. Therefore the option of open access publication is available to authors with the necessary funding. www.maneyonline.com/openaccess

Benefits of submitting to this journal:

- Indexed by Periodicals Index Online, MLA Bibliography and Scopus amongst others
- Annual special issues
